The DBA in Sustainable Innovation Management is delivered jointly by ICN Business School and the Business Science Institute (BSI), Luxembourg. BSI is an independent institution that brings together international scholars with the aim of developing doctoral-level executive education. The BSI DBA programme is AMBA accredited and ranked #4 in the prestigious DUBAI RANKING of DBA (October 2020).

In addition, our DBA is offered as a dual degree programme with IAE Lyon, the School of Management at the city's Jean Moulin University. Graduates will receive both a university degree ("diplôme d'université") of Doctor in Business Administration from Jean Moulin University and the title of Executive Doctor in Business Administration from ICN & the Business Science Institute.

Join our rigorous, challenging DBA programme and enhance your professional skills and capabilities in an international context

Our DBA is designed for senior executives, managers, consultants and management educators with at least five years of management experience and qualified at Master or MBA level (or equivalent). The Online DBA in Sustainable Innovation Management is organised in three different stages and is normally completed in four years.

STAGE ONE

Equips students with the research skills they need, including quantitative and qualitative research methods, and focuses on the programme's specific thematic area, sustainable innovation management; students will also prepare their research proposal for the DBA thesis.

STAGE TWO

Is devoted to thesis research and writing, under the supervision of an experienced researcher, and the presentation of students' research progress at the annual BSI International Week.

STAGE THREE

Comprises the completion of the thesis and public defence before an international panel of examiners.

Throughout all stages, students are guided and mentored by an experienced faculty member. Monthly online feedback meetings guarantee close, regular monitoring of student progress up to graduation.
